Elliot and the Untouchables Free Concert 15 May

One of Columbia's finest blues bands, heck finest band period, will bring their energetic performance to Oyster Point 15 May at 1600.

This concert is FREE and open to all so bring your friends!

For the last 8 years, Elliott New (guitar) and Mike "Naz" Nazarenko (harmonica) have been at the front of the Untouchables' high-energy blues sound... "Killer guitar tone and a Goliath on harp" writes the All Music Guide. These two continue to push each other to new heights. All the while, bassman J.T. Anderson has held the foundation solid as a rock, described as "keeping it exclusively in the pocket."

Elliott and the Untouchables

15 May at 1600

disciple of the Texas Tenor sound,

Sonny has been blowing his Selmer tenor for more than 50 years. His classic old-school sax tone has allowed the band to stretch out in new directions.

Next, Jim Heidenreich took the captain's chair on drums in 2003. A founding member of the band more than 10 years ago, Jim has rejoined the band after years of traveling brought him back home to South Carolina. His "cracklin' snare & deep pockets" have turned up the band's energy a few notches. Always keeping the band rooted in the deep blues, Jim drives the band boldly to new ground.

The new "Voodoo Stew" CD also features another new aspect of the Untouchables sound: Elliott's 4-string diddley bow (a.k.a. the Ellbow). Performing at a festival with Memphis blues man Richard Johnston, Elliott was drawn to Richard's slide work on the LoweBow, a 4-string diddley bow built by Memphis luthier, John Lowe. Always a fan of the Mississippi delta blues, Elliott began experimenting and building his own 4- and 5-string diddley bows.

Eventually, he introduced his electric cigar-box guitar creations into the Untouchables' music, taking the band into uncharted waters. With a combination of guitar and bass strings, the primitive instrument has an electric sound that is shockingly HUGE. If their live shows are any indication, the cigar-box guitar is on it's way to being a big hit.

Consistently, Anderson has pounded out this outfit's driving rhythms for the last 7 years.

Since the band's last release "Smokin' The Blues," Elliott has deputized two new Untouchables to join the band. First, Sonny "D" Dickey joined the band on sax. A
